

Spectacular Forest Fire Guts Timber in Proving Ground

The long line of fire that raged through the Proving Ground last night can be seen in this picture taken about 7 p.m. at Ram Wood Lake. The picture was taken on the south side of the lake, looking east. It shows the mass of fire as it topped a hill heading southeast directly to the farm of Mrs. Rene McMillan. The glare from the mass wall of flames easily lights up the lake. Backfires brought the blaze under control.

Other Areas Plagued by Forest Fires

Fire hazard conditions have blossomed in Arkansas. It's going to get worse before it gets better. The state had its last measurable amount of rainfall Feb. 2. Rainfall in the state is over five inches below normal at this point, the U.S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock said.

Small fires have cropped up in bunches around the state, and a couple of larger ones hit Arkansas Wednesday.

The most notable one was near Hope, where a fire that raged nine miles long and eight miles wide ravaged about 4,000 acres of timber land. At various points it endangered two cities—Hope and DeAnn. It continued burning today.

The other fire was about seven miles due west of Hot Springs. The Garland County Forestry crew, using bulldozers, brought the fire under control after it had burned about 1½ miles of grassland and some timber. A boat and motor owned by Jack Craig was destroyed, but his home was saved.

The Little Rock Fire Department answered 38 alarms Wednesday.

Wind whipped a grass fire out of control at Washington, setting off the forest fire that hit Hempstead County Wednesday.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock said there was a slight chance of rain for the state today. Winds should remain between about five and 20 miles per hour, a Weather Bureau spokesman said.

At Strong, fire destroyed a Negro church Wednesday. The Gardner Church was leveled after it caught fire from a small grass fire. The Strong Fire Department could not obtain enough water to successfully fight the blaze. The church was located outside the Strong city limits.

The El Dorado Fire Department answered eight alarms on grass and brush fires. No heavy damage was reported. One fire was touched off by a welding torch and burned into the M&A Wrecking Yard at El Dorado, and blasted through about 20 wrecked cars and trucks. No damage estimate was available.

El Dorado firemen also aided state Forestry Commission crews in battling fires elsewhere in Union County.

Unusual numbers of fires were reported elsewhere in south Arkansas. Four were reported at Paragould in about two hours' time.

A day earlier, on Tuesday, six fires hit the El Dorado area, and large numbers of small fires hit the Springdale, Bentonville and Rogers areas in northwest Arkansas.

More Take Baths

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—The National Park Service said Wednesday installation of new whirlpool paths apparently has caused a spurt in the number of persons taking thermal baths this year.

A slump in business at bathhouses had been reported late last year. The service said that in the 31 days since the new whirlpool baths were installed, 32,499 baths were given, compared to 29,950 in January of last year. Of those given last month, 4,892 were in the new whirlpool facilities.

Kennedy Offers a Health Bill

By JOHN BARBOUR

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today prescribed ways to pep up the nation's health services—then got in a quick plug for his politically hot medicare proposals he may send Congress next week.

Today's message to Capitol Hill spelled out how the $1.6 billion in health funds—requested in his budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1—would be spent. It's $250 million more than the price tag in the current fiscal year.

The President proposed steps to:

Encourage and support training of more doctors, dentists and nurses, by helping build new and expand existing schools.

Extend for five years authority to share costs of building new hospitals, boost funds for new nursing homes, and share costs of hospital modernization.

Strengthen federal authority over sales of cosmetics, over-the-counter drugs and other health items.

Require cosmetic manufacturers to prove the safety of their wares and health device producers to prove both safety and effectiveness.

The President devoted two paragraphs in his 10-page message to what he called "a tragic irony" that medical science has kept millions of retired men and women alive to face illnesses they cannot afford.

"Needless suffering in silence, financial catastrophe, public or private charity—these are not acceptable alternatives in the richest country on earth," he said. "Social Security health insurance must be enacted this year."

It was an advance boost for his medicare proposals, defeated in Congress last year. He intends to ask for it again in a general message on aging which a spokesman said would probably come next week.

The President also wants to boost research and control of air pollution and general health research by the National Institutes of Health.

Robber Took Her at Her Word

NEW YORK (AP)—Having a quick-witted teller paid off Wednesday for the Automated Bank. When a man walked into the bank and handed the woman teller a note demanding money, she fibbed: "We don't have any." The man left.

Vaccination for Bangs to Start Feb. 25

Farmers of Hempstead county will have an opportunity to get their heifer calves vaccinated again Bank's disease starting February 25. W. R. Durham of Prescott will be the vaccinator.

County Agent Calvin J. Caldwell advises that the cards requesting vaccination will be mailed today. It will be necessary to return these to the county agent if you wish to have your calves vaccinated by Monday, February 18.

The proper age to vaccinate heifer calves against this costly disease is from 4 to 8 months. Farmers who do not receive one of the cards asking the number of calves to be vaccinated should contact the Extension office by phone or in person.

Mr. Caldwell says that vaccination of all heifer calves in Hempstead county would help to keep our county on a Modified-Certified Bang's Free basis. It is also a much cheaper method of keeping Bang's disease out of herds than through the test and slaughter method he said.

Medicare Plan Will Come Later

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy sends his major health proposals to Congress today—but is expected to save for a later date his controversial program for care for the elderly under Social Security financing.

Last year, the President included the medicare plan with his major health proposals. This year the plan will be treated in a message dealing with problems of the aged—probably defining its political impact in sharper terms.

The President is offering his health proposals to Congress this year in three stages: Tuesday's general health message, today's expected statement on problems of the aged.

Democratic congressional leaders reported the President's plans after their regular weekly breakfast meeting with Kennedy on Tuesday.

They said the general health message would deal with the need for more doctors, dentists and nurses, an increase in medical and dental school capacity, and ways of increasing hospital and nursing home facilities.

The President's mental health message earlier recommended a national network of community mental health centers.

Matching Funds Up

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Federal matching funds for Arkansas have risen nearly $4 million this year over the past year, state Treasurer Nancy J. Hall said Wednesday. Federal matching funds for the state in January totaled $5,428,448, an amount $256,158 below the level of January, 1962, she said. January receipts handled by the treasurer's office amounted to $27,684,694 in January, Mrs. Hall said.

Wants Seat Belts in All Autos

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—State Sen. Zell Miller says he will offer a bill when the Georgia Legislature reconvenes next week to make seat belts mandatory in all new cars sold in the state starting in 1964.

Suit Dismissed

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—A suit seeking to halt sale of $2,214,000 in bonds for construction of a civic center here was dismissed Wednesday by Cancellor Joseph Morrison. The suit sought to void Ordinance 3715, which called for the bonds to be issued. The bond issue to finance the center was approved in the November general election by city voters.

All Around Town

By The Star Staff

A lot of thanks goes out to local folks for their efforts last night in the big Proving Ground fire. Mrs. Rene McMillan just didn't have enough kind words for the dozens of folks who stood by while the blaze roared directly to her farm and then fought it to a standstill when it threatened to jump the road. If they hadn't been there the place would have been lost. . . . and credit goes to Hobart Salisbury and L. L. Martin who used their tractors and equipment to control the blaze in the DeAnn area. . . . many buildings, including a Negro Church, were saved by their work. . . . and credit too the many Hope and Hempstead folks who came out and pitched in apparently just when and where needed. . . . the implement firms in Hope sent out equipment and Buster Denton, district forester was on hand to direct the fighting. . . . the Sheriff's office is investigating the possibility of a fire bug in the area. . . . an Oakhaven couple driving on the SPG through bad heavy backfires had been sent and the danger had completely passed, spotted a car that sped off when they approached. . . . when they arrived where the car had been they discovered three small fires going on the north side of the road. . . . they put out two but couldn't handle the third one. . . . fortunately, Frank Ramsey, John Lloyd and several more in a crew came along and put it out.

The couple notified the sheriff, gave a description of the car. . . . mind you, this was across a road in an area where the fire hadn't even touched. . . . the men who fought it think it was set and at least one resident of the area patrolled the through road all night to see that it didn't occur again.

A reminder, The Senior High Girls play Texarkana here tonight starting at 7 o'clock.

LaGrone Williams, Hope, has been appointed to serve the membership committee of the Arkansas Retail Hardware Association which meets Sunday, Feb. 10 at Hotel Marion in Little Rock.

For years the late Mrs. Vera Anderson worked hard and faithful as a member of the Rose Hill Cemetery Association, collecting funds and overseeing the care of the cemetery. . . . recently, her daughter, Mrs. Mary Sue Evans, was named to take her place on the board.

The Hope Independent Basketball team clobbered Texarkana Junior College team last night to the tune of 92 to 68. Wayne Lee was high for the locals with 26 points. Bruce and Townsend were second with 15 each. . . . Watts was the leader for the losers with 22 points. . . . one of Hope's star players was out due to an injury. . . . wonder what the score would have been otherwise.

Proving Ground Area Largest of Three Fires

A spectacular forest fire roared across an estimated 4,000 acres of timber and farm land in the old proving ground yesterday and last night, got within a few blocks of Oakhaven and for a time threatened the DeAnn area and the industrial area before being brought under control.

There were no serious injuries and damage was mainly to timber in the fenced in area which is owned by the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission. By 10 p.m., the blaze was under control although many sections of hemmed in timber continued to burn throughout the night and the area smoldered today. No danger was posed today although a high wind which famed last night's blaze continued.

The possibility that a fire bug may have started at least four fires yesterday and last night is being investigated by the Hempstead Sheriff's Department and State Police. And Forester Buster Deaton is investigating in the Washington area.

At Little Rock, Jim Talley, fire chief of the state Forestry Commission, said his office and State Police are investigating the possibility of arson. "There was so much fire that our people think it had to be set," Talley said. It was the third fire in the county yesterday. Earlier in the Holly Grove area near Bleivins a blaze cut a path about a mile long and a half mile wide. It burned down a small chicken house, a barn full of hay and cotton meal and pump house on the Elbert Bain farm, a small barn on the Lillian Roberts place and a barn on the farm of a Negro family named Dunn. It was brought under control by fighters which converged on the area.

At Guernsey yesterday afternoon an estimate 200 acres in timber land burned over before the blaze was controlled.

The Walt Ross place near Washington was almost caught in the path of the fire which raced through the SPG. However, tractors brought in by the Buster A. Denton, District Forester and Hope implement firms helped save the place. The fire roared on into the SPG jumping the Missouri Pacific Railway and the west patrol road.

Back fires were set all around the fenced in area and along with the hundreds of firefighters were credited with bringing it under control. Perhaps the most seriously threatened farm belongs to Mrs. Rene McMillan. However, dozens of firefighters stood by and kept the blaze from jumping the road. In spite of this part of the McMillan place burned over and a large portion of the old Lee Norton place burned over. Fighters managed to stop the blaze at old east patrol road and the SPG road that cuts through to the west patrol road. Backfires were set along the entire five mile stretch, hemming in the blaze which finally burned itself out.

Workers and residents of the area reported hearing many shells going off and some reported flak going over his head.

Arkansas Forestry Commission crews, the Hope Fire Department and hundreds of volunteers pressed bulldozers, tractors and plows into action to turn the fire back.

It had started near Washington, nine miles north of Hope, and burned southward along state Highway 4, through the proving ground, and to the Oak Haven community.

State Second in Broiler Production

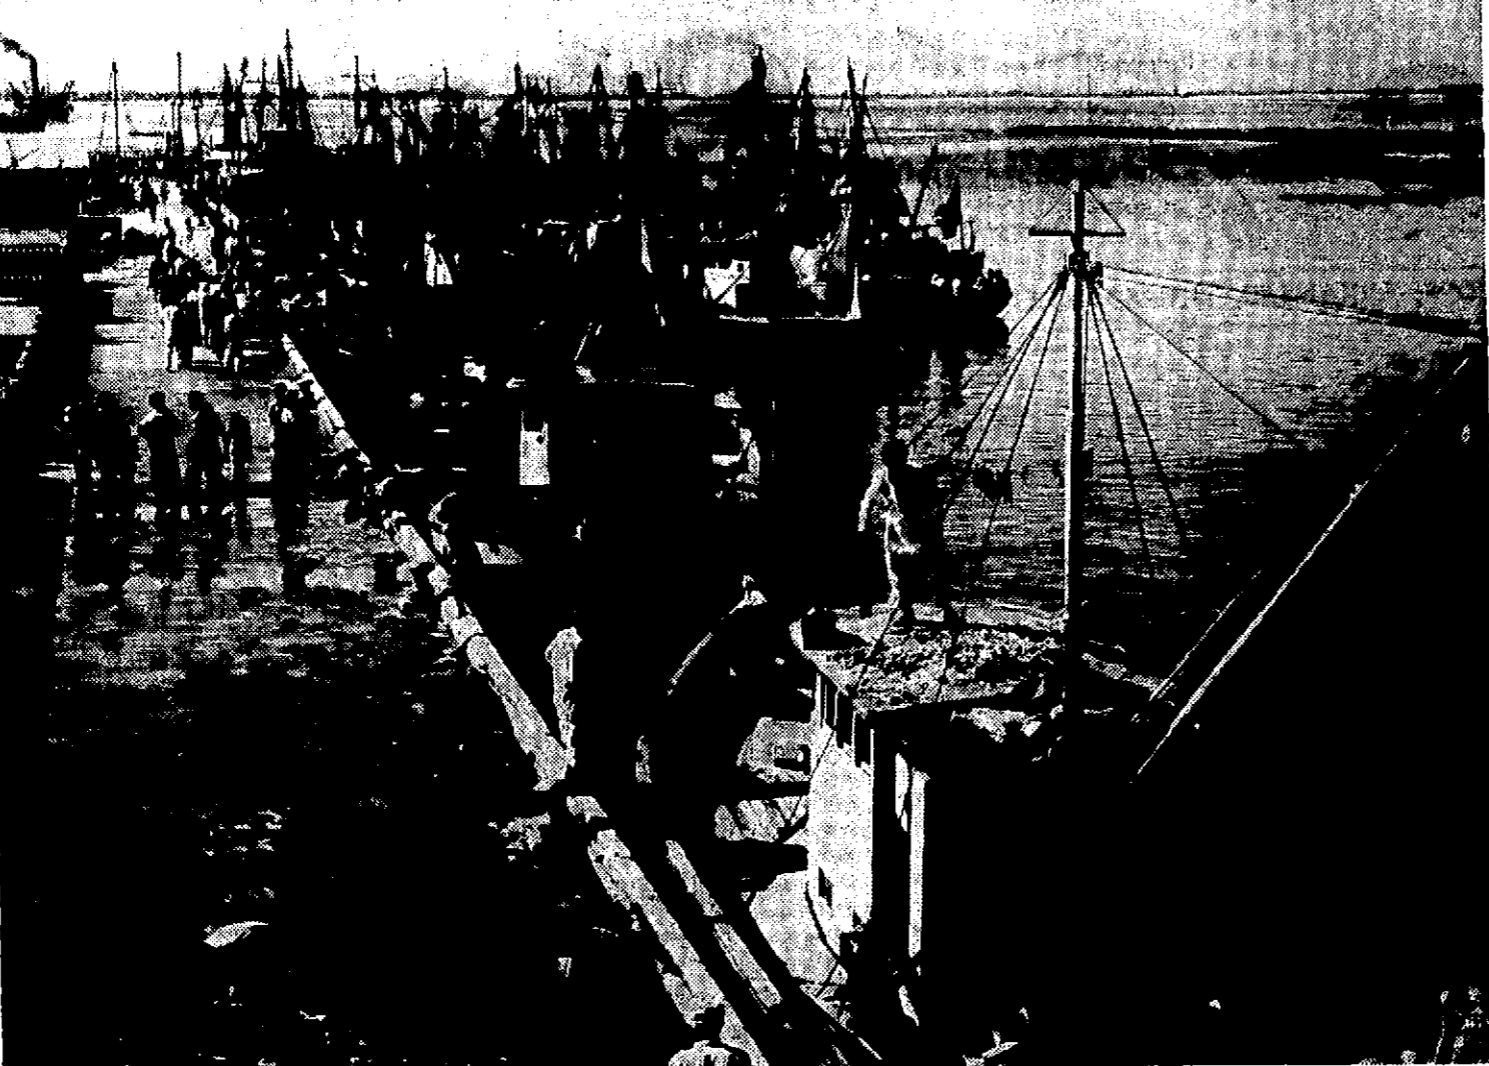

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas ranked second among the top 25 broiler-producing states in 1962 with 241 million chicks, an increase of five per cent over the 1961 production of 229 million.

Only Georgia, which produced 353,600 and had a gross income of $168,031,000 from them, topped Arkansas.

Gross income from broiler production in Arkansas in 1962 totaled $112 million, $17 million more than in 1961, the Crop Reporting Service of the Agriculture Department said today.

There are nearly 400 tree farms in Arkansas.

Effort Seen to Knock Out Literacy Part

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas House tacked a literacy amendment to its voter registration bill Wednesday, but an effort to rescind the action is expected.

The amendment would give registrars (county clerks) authority to challenge literacy of a prospective registrant and require him to prove he can read and interpret sections of the state constitution.

The amendment was sponsored by Hempstead County Rep. Talbot Feild Jr., and was approved unanimously by the House Rules Committee, which also recommended passage of the bill.

The House adopted the amendment shortly after it convened. Field did not explain the measure saying simply that it was a committee amendment.

Garland County Rep. Nathan Schoenfeld tried to object that he had not heard the proposed amendment when it was read but he was unable to get it read again.

Field did not mention the amendment while the committee was considering the bill at a public hearing.

The voter registration law is proposed as a substitute for Arkansas' poll tax registration system in anticipation of a federal constitutional amendment outlawing the poll tax.

There is no literacy requirement for paying the poll tax which fully qualifies a person to vote.

Literacy tests have been used in some states to keep Negroes from voting.

The House passed a bill to

Farm Hands Scarce

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Employment Security Division said Wednesday local farm hands will be more scarce this year than last, yet more plentiful than in 1961. The ESD said 6,749 Mexican nationals were used during the peak cotton harvesting season last year. The ESD attributed the decline of local labor to migration of workers to urban areas.

implement Amendment 50, which authorizes use of voting machines if approved by a popular vote. Under the bill, county and city governing bodies would not be required to buy machines just because voters approve their use.

Wednesday was a busy day in both Houses. The Senate passed 24 bills and the House 17, mostly of non-controversial nature.

The House defeated for the second time and killed Chicot County Rep. Ben Bynum's bill to require installation of seat belts in all new cars sold in Arkansas, starting with 1964 models.

The bill got only 40 votes, seven less than it received on first consideration last Thursday.

The House passed two bills to change the dates for school elections and the taxing-appropriation meetings of county quorum courts.

The bills would set school elections on the last Tuesday in September (instead of the first Tuesday in December) and the quorum court meetings on the third Monday in November, instead of the second Monday in December.

Sponsors said the bills would give county collectors more time to prepare tax books, which cannot be drawn up until the county court has met.

The House received two "wet" liquor bills. One would shut off distribution of taxes derived from liquor to dry counties and the other would permit portions of dry counties to vote wet as portions of wet counties can now vote dry.

Under existing law, an entire county must vote wet before alcoholic beverages can be sold anywhere within the county borders.

The second bill also would permit a vote on sale of beer only and on sale beer for off premise or on premise consumption. Present law permits a vote only on legal sale of liquor without restrictions.

Bills passed by the Senate Wednesday included measures to: Require the Highway Department to erect welcome signs on major highways leading into the state.

Exempt minerals not now being mined from the severance tax. Permit city council to refer ordinances to a popular vote.

The Senate also passed a House bill to relieve persons who give first aid in emergencies from liability for civil damages. The bill now is ready for Gov. Orval E. Faubus' signature.

Each House passed its own version of an administration bill to prohibit deposit of state funds in banks which charge a fee for cashing state warrants.

Other bills passed by the House included measures to:

Transfer responsibility for administering the 1959 boat registration law from county clerks to assessors.

Make it illegal for an inmate of a penal institution to maim himself to escape work.

Senate introductions Wednesday included: A bill by Sens. Clifton Wade of Fayetteville and Russell Elrod of Siloam Springs to prevent the defendant in a highway condemnation suit from withdrawing any additional damage deposit the court may require the Highway Department to make.

J. M. Roberts, News Analyst, Dies at 60

NEW YORK (AP)—John M. (J.M.) Roberts, Associated Press news analyst and columnist, died Wednesday night at his home in Kew Gardens, Queens, of a heart attack. He was 60.

Roberts was on The Associated Press staff for 32 years.

He was foreign editor in the early forties, during World War II. Since 1947, he had written his daily column, "Interpreting The News."

Roberts was city editor of the Charlotte (N.C.) Observer before joining The Associated Press in 1931. Prior to that, he had worked on the Durham (N.C.) Herald and the Asheville (N.C.) Citizen.

Confident They Can Hike 50 Miles

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Four Marines, a sailor and a newspaper reporter hiked along Interstate Highway 30 today on a 50-mile hike in answer to a challenge by President Kennedy.

The President challenged Marines to live up to a 1908 executive order issued by former President Theodore Roosevelt.

The Rough Rider said Marines should be able to walk 50 miles in 20 hours, make the last half-mile in double time and the last 200 yards in a run.

The Marines, the sailor and the reporter left Hot Springs, Ark., 50 miles west of Little Rock, last midnight. They expect to reach the Little Rock city limits at 8 p.m.

The sailor, Navy Hospitalman Chief Theodore Barron, is attached to the 6th Marine Rifle Company Reserve at Little Rock. He said he was interested in upholding the honor of the corps.

The reporter, Claude Walbert of the Arkansas Democrat, vowed he could do it if the Marines could.

Walbert wore a Marine cap, a civilian coat, and combat boots. The group of six walked in pairs.

The Marines are Capt. Gus J. George, Lt. David Jordan, Reserve Capt. Phillips Sterling and S-Sgt. Raymond Wrench. They are attached to the 6th Rifle Co. Reserve, which George commands.

They carried no gear, only canteens. A Marine car accompanied them and the marchers were given easily-digestible foods. They walked 50 minutes, then rested 10 minutes, and were averaging 2.5 miles per hour. They had gone 19 miles at 8 a.m. today.

Before the hike, George said, "Look, nobody's kidding anybody. Walking is no fun. It'll be murder. We'll all be sore."

As they stepped briskly along the heavily-traveled highway early today, one commented, "This is the way we'll look within 150 feet of our destination."

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Four Marines and a sailor, confident that they would be footsore and weary, were on their way here today on a 50-mile hike to uphold the honor of the corps.

The men accepted Wednesday the challenge of President Kennedy to fulfill a 1908 executive order by former President Theodore Roosevelt that Marines should be able to walk 50 miles in 20 hours—not only walk it, but finish the last half-mile in double time and the last 200 yards in a double run.

Leaving a spot just outside the

Senate Vote Against Restriction

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate voted today against restricting debate over proposals for a rule change to make it easier to halt filibusters.

Defeat of the debate-limitation move was expected to bring a quick end to the marathon battle that has snarled the Senate since Congress convened Jan. 9.

The vote was 54 for restricting debate and 42 against.

A two-thirds majority was required to put the move over. If it had succeeded, it would have limited to one hour thereafter each senator's speaking time on a motion to take up rules changes for consideration.

Southern senators have blocked any vote on the proposed changes by filibustering against the motion to take them up.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who initiated the debate-limitation move, said earlier the size of today's vote would determine his next step in trying to wind up the fight.

It less than 60 senators voted to shut off debate he intended to move that the Senate adjourn instead of recessing as it has done each day since Jan. 14.

Adjournment would put an end to the scrap since it would wash out a motion by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., to take up a rules change that would permit filibusters to be halted by three-fifths of the senators voting instead of the two-thirds majority now required.

On what turned out to be a vote without any real significance, the Hot Springs City limits, exactly 50 miles from an intersection on the edge of southwest Little Rock, were Capt. Gus J. George, Lt. David Jordan, Reserve Capt. Phillips Sterling, S-Sgt. Raymond Wrench and Navy Hospitalman Chief Theodore Barron.

All are attached to the 6th Rifle Company Reserve at Little Rock, commanded by George.

The five carried no gear, only canteens. Details of their plans for obtaining food along the way weren't made clear. A Marine sedan was to meet them at 2 1/2 mile intervals along the road, for rest breaks.

George said prior to the hike, "Look, nobody's kidding anybody. Walking is no fun. It'll be murder. We'll all be sore."

But as the five stepped briskly along the route early today, one commented, "This is the way we'll look within 150 feet of our destination."

The men expected to reach Little Rock by 10 p.m. tonight.

Proving Ground

Then it headed north again, burned between state Highways 4 and 29. It jumped Highway 29 and threatened on the town of DeAnn where 250-300 persons live.

The fire changed direction again, moved east and ranged about nine miles long and eight miles wide. It was brought under control on the eastern front, but continued to burn slowly but freely on the northern and southern ends.

The blaze began about noon Wednesday, when a resident of near Washington burned a meadow. It was windy, he said, and the fire got out of control.

Firemen could not go into the proving ground area, which is surrounded by a high fence. The fence burned down, but firefighters stayed out of the area because of the exploding shells.

In the industrial complex, which was saved, are the Klipsch Co., which makes electronic speakers; Southwest Packing Co., a meat packing firm; Ranwood Co., which manufactures skis; and the Plaswood Co., which manufactures wall board and the Arkansas Tank Co.

Hempstead County sheriff's deputies set up roadblocks on highways in the area to prevent sightseers from crowding into the way of firefighters. Traffic jammed several roads.

Radio Station KXAR at Hope, which usually goes off the air at 6:30 p.m. continued to broadcast emergency information, call for volunteers and give progress reports until 8:15 p.m.

At least two ranches were saved by the efforts of volunteers fighting the fire close-in.

The town of Bleivins was about 12 miles north of the fire. By nightfall Wednesday, a thick pall of smoke hung over the blackened land within the proving ground, which now is under the control of the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission.

A similar fire hit the area in 1959, at least one ranch was destroyed then, and many acres of timber destroyed.

Senate Wednesday rejected, 92 to 5, a motion to table and thus kill Anderson's motion to take up his three-fifths proposal.

It was a flop as a test of strength because Southern senators generally joined with advocates of a rules change in voting against tabling.

Cheerleader of Office Gets Ahead

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions—and how many do you agree with?

If you want to impress your boss, give him success talk. Most executives have an emotional need to look through rose-colored glasses. They are less likely to promote a chronic fault-finder, no matter how talented, than a subordinate who habitually emphasizes the hopeful aspects of a bad situation.

It's the office cheerleader who is most likely to get ahead in a business—that is, as long as the business lasts.

No man is going to have a happy marriage for long if he finds it necessary to run next door more than once a week to borrow ice cubes from his neighbor's pretty wife.

The world's best cabbies are in London because, before they get behind the wheel, they spend arduous months on a bicycle learning every street in that sprawling city. Some of the worst taxi drivers are probably in Manhattan. To them everything north of Yankee Stadium or east of the Brooklyn Bridge (except for the airports) is a howling wilderness.

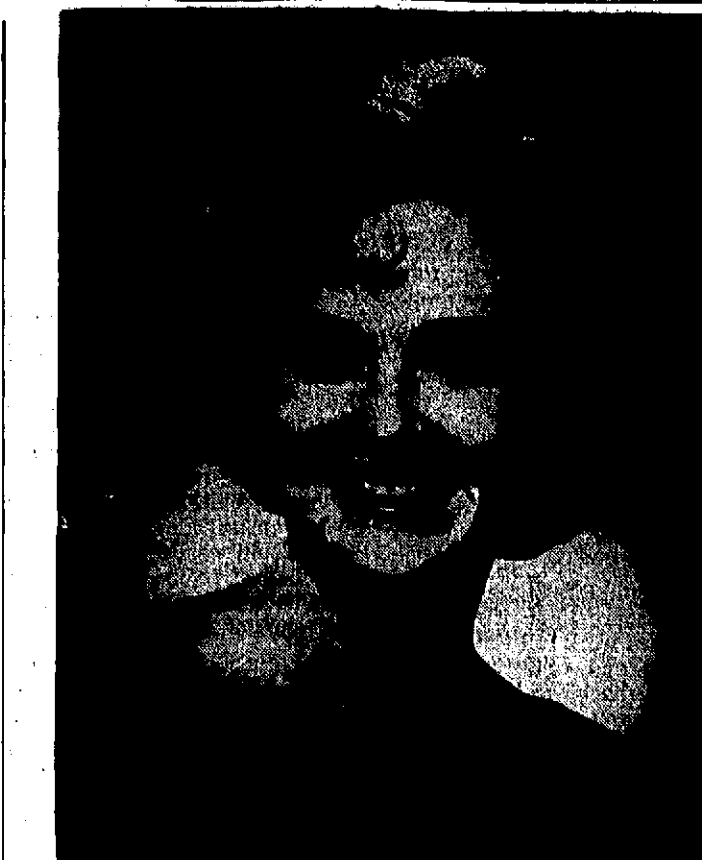

To me one of the most depressing signs of the decline in the value of money is the fact that many people today, if they drop a penny, no longer bother to pick it up. I made 12 cents last year, rescuing lost pennies that strangers didn't retrieve.

A henpecked husband is more likely to get in an auto accident when driving alone than when his wife is in the car. He is unused to depending on his own judgment in a traffic crisis.

The most insufferable snobs civilization has produced are those whose only claim to fame is that they play bridge expertly.

A man who never complains about his losses at a race track is often acclaimed as a good sport. But anyone who regularly loses more money than he can afford to betting on horses is actually a masochist. He enjoys self-punishment. Most gamblers are as sick as alcoholics.

You can take three years off your life expectancy for every inch your waist is bigger around

The wedding, a double ring ceremony, will take place on March second, 1963, at eight o'clock in the evening in the chapel of First Methodist Church at Shreveport.

Dr. D. T. Dyles, Jr. officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Looney of Shreveport will attend the couple as best man and matron of honor.

The couple will make their home in Shreveport.

Tells Canada to Ease on Hate America

By MAX HARRELLSON

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada's plunge into a new national election campaign was accompanied today by pressure on Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker to go easy on anti-Americanism. The pressure came from both inside and outside his Conservative party.

Diefenbaker, 67, went through the formalities Wednesday of dissolving Parliament and calling for new elections April 8 after his regime was unseated by two non-confidence votes in the House of Commons. The move did not affect the Senate, whose members serve for life.

Despite his defeat in Commons, Diefenbaker's shaken Conservative party closed ranks behind him as its leader. Earlier some Conservatives had called for him to step aside.

Although some Conservative leaders declared that anti-Americanism will not be a campaign issue, the prime minister as recently as Tuesday accused the United States of more meddling in Canada. Diefenbaker appeared committed to hit hard on the question of Canadian sovereignty and the idea that "nobody is going to push Canada around."

The Liberal party, under the leadership of a Nobel Peace Prize winner, Lester B. Pearson, has deplored the rift between Canada and the United States over the nuclear weapons issue. It says it hopes anti-Americanism will be kept out of the campaign.

If it does come up, the Liberals say, they will take a stand in favor of restoring good relations with Canada's friends and allies. The conservative Ottawa Journal agreed with Diefenbaker that the United States was wrong in intervening in Canada's nuclear debate, but it added:

"This issue must not be carried down into the gutter of reckless talk. This is no time for 'no truck or trade with the Yankees.'"

Pearson also said he did not believe nuclear weapons should be a political issue. That should be a matter for government decision, he said.

The real issues of the campaign, said Pearson, are unemployment, economic growth and confidence in the Canadian economy, plus the need for decisive, purposeful government by a majority party.

Few losing politicians ever believe they were defeated by an enemy who was a better man. They secretly feel it was their friends who let them down by not doing enough.

Postmastership

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Post Office Department said Wednesday it would accept applications until March 5 for postmaster at Salem, Ark., a position paying $5,805 annually.

Referee May Be Called in WASHINGTON (AP) — An impartial referee may have to be called in to decide whether Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., should eat his hat.

Before Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara went on television late Wednesday, Keating told reporters he would eat his hat if McNamara refuted his charges of a dangerous Soviet buildup in Cuba.

"Do you have a hat for him?" McNamara was asked by one newsman.

"I don't own a hat," McNamara shot back. "I hope he does, because he's going to have to eat it based on the evidence we've seen today."

Keating was undaunted. He insisted McNamara hadn't knocked down his charges.

"Well, it looks like I won't have to eat my hat," Keating said.

Change at Base

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The commander of the 825th Strategic Aerospace Division at Little Rock Air Force Base, Col. Robert W. Strong Jr., will be reassigned March 1 to Washington. A successor to Strong, who has headed operations at the Air Base since November, 1961, was not named. Strong will become deputy director for personnel planning, working in the office of the deputy chief of staff for personnel at the Pentagon.

Laborites to Select New Leader

By GEOFFREY MILLER

LONDON (AP)—Britain's opposition Labor party faced the prospect of an inconclusive first ballot today in the three-man race for a new leader whose chief task will be to preserve party unity.

The man finally chosen could well be Britain's next prime minister if he can hold the party's opposing factions together. But observers doubted that the party had united behind one man and picked a leader on the first ballot.

Harold Wilson, economist and Labor's foreign affairs expert, and George Brown, the present acting leader, were regarded as neck and neck favorites for the job. Political commentators gave Wilson a slight edge. The third candidate, fiscal expert James Callaghan, was considered a dark horse.

The 249 Laborites in the House of Commons have been casting secret ballots for a week for a new leader to succeed the late Hugh Gaitskell. The ballot box will be opened tonight and the votes counted.

If the first ballot gives none of the candidates a majority, the man with the fewest votes is eliminated and the remaining two go into a new contest.

Gaitskell during his seven years as leader welded the party together on the two big issues that threatened to split it in two—un-

Warmer Weather for Another Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A cold air mass swept into Arkansas today, banishing clear skies and warm weather for at least a day.

Clouds rolled over the state in the wake of the intruder, and there was a possibility of some light drizzle mostly in the northern portion today.

Clear skies were predicted for tonight, but they were expected to be accompanied by cooler weather. The forecast for Friday was fair and warmer.

Flights today were expected to be around 50 northeast to near 70 in the extreme southwest. Lows of 24 to 32 northeast and 32 to 40 southwest were predicted for tonight.

More clouds and light drizzle were the prospect for Saturday. Overnight lows reported around the state this morning were generally in the low 40s, ranging from the mid 30s to the mid 40s. No precipitation was reported in the state during the 24-hour period ending today at 6 a.m. lateral disarmament and further nationalization. His death Jan. 18 raised speculation that the old disputes might break out again.

The Conservative government of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has a majority of 100 in the House of Commons. Macmillan can pick the time for the general election which must be held by October, 1964. The leader of the party winning a majority in the House of Commons automatically becomes prime minister.

Rules on Petition for Consolidation

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office ruled today that five per cent of voters in a county with two courthouses may petition for consolidation of them.

The ruling went to Sharp County Judge Lloyd Arnn who said that apparently the majority of the people in the county are in favor of relocating the county courthouses which are located in Evening Shade and Hardy.

The ruling said that if five per cent of the voters petition for consolidation, an election must be called to decide the issue.

Heyman Leads Duke to Very Decisive Win

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Toward the close of the 1961-62 basketball season, Coach Bones McKinney of Wake Forest was asked his opinion of Duke star Art Heyman.

"I wouldn't attempt to try and add any new adjectives on Heyman. There aren't any left. He's great," McKinney replied.

The Wake Forest coach had no reason to downgrade that estimate today after the Blue Devil cornerman led Duke to an important 97-66 victory over McKinney's Deacons.

The serious, 6-foot-5 history student tossed in 22 points, handed out 13 assists and grabbed 10 rebounds in the 36 minutes he played Wednesday night.

The triumph left Duke, ranked third in the nation, with a 16-2 record and 9-0 in the Atlantic Coast Conference. For Wake Forest, defending league champ and the principal challenger to Duke this season, it was the second straight league loss after eight victories.

In some of the other major games, Pitt blasted Fordham 87-61, St. Louis routed Louisville 78-58, LaSalle scored its ninth straight in a 80-65 victory over Gettysburg. Villanova stormed over Canisius 79-60, Army beat Rutgers 83-65 and North Carolina took Morgan State 75-61.

Sophomore Jim Barry struck for 28 points in leading Georgetown to a 72-70 victory over New Orleans Loyola. Duquesne whipped Bethany, W.Va. 85-68. Ohio University edged Miami, Ohio 72-67. Dayton beat Xavier 79-63. St. Bonaventure defeated Steubenville 82-76. St. Mary's of California turned back Pepperdine, 84-69 and Loyola of Los Angeles downed the University of Pacific 72-61.

$60 Raised to Finance Industry

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas has raised $60,921,750 to help finance new industry since 1955, the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission reported today.

The money was raised to finance 96 industries, which accounted for 23,445 new jobs. The figures were included in a report prepared for the 1963 legislature by the AIDC.

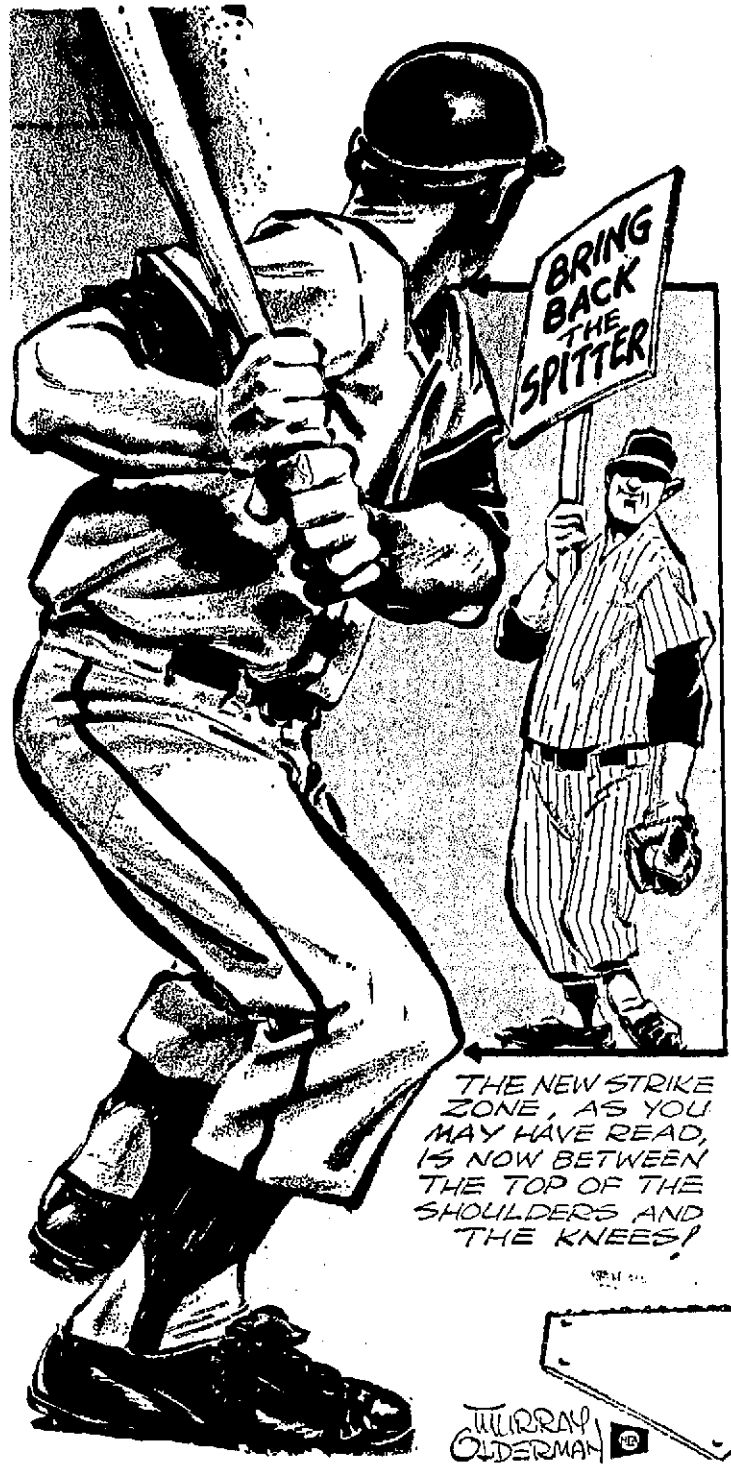

The report showed that 53 bond issues totaling $12,218,250 were floated under amendment 49, that 38 revenue bond issues totaling $44,706,500 were issued under Act 9 of 1960 and that local industrial development corporations floated 23 bond issues totaling $7,000,000 under Act 404 of 1953.

The state's industrial program has resulted in an increase in the manufacturing work force from 65,000 to 115,500 during a 7-year period, the report said.

The AIDC reported earlier that new job creations in the first 10 months of 1962 totaled 13,383, more than any previous one-year total. It had no figures for the complete year 1962.

U.S., Canada Relations Are Strained

EDITOR'S NOTE—Seldom have U.S.-Canadian relations been more strained, mainly because of a State Department statement Washington insiders say wasn't intended as a bombshell nor read in advance by President Kennedy. Who cleared it at the White House and what lies ahead for "the good neighbors?"

An AP News Analysis
By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The political crisis in Canada threatens to maintain for several months the severe strains on U.S.-Canadian relations.

There was no immediate comment here from the White House or State Department on the fall of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's Conservative government Tuesday night. But U.S. leaders are sensitively aware that a State Department statement just a week ago sparked the tumult which now forces the Canadians into new elections.

Since Diefenbaker had made a major issue of what he called U.S. intrusion into Canadian affairs there is no doubt joint Canadian-U.S. defense activities, nuclear weapons for Canada's armed forces, and probably the whole range of political and economic relations between Ottawa and Washington will be hotly debated during the election period.

So far as can be determined, neither President Kennedy nor Secretary of State Dean Rusk had a hand in producing the State Department statement which burst like a bomb in the middle of Canadian politics.

Indeed the statement evidently was not supposed to be such a bombshell at all, although its authors reportedly foresaw the possibility of angry Canadian government criticism.

Kennedy is understood to have been upset the day after the statement came out by the apparent failure of State and Defense Department authorities to judge its impact. It was understood to have been cleared by McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the President for national security affairs.

The statement was designed to clear up for the record U.S. government views on issues involving Canada's acceptance or rejection of U.S. nuclear warheads for U.S. weapons systems already in Canadian hands.

The idea of issuing a statement, informed officials say, originated in the U.S. Embassy in Ottawa and in the State Department here after a debate on nuclear weapons in the Canadian Parliament. The embassy is under direction of Ambassador W. Walton Butterworth and the State Department policy control is understood to have been delegated by Rusk to Undersecretary George W. Ball. The issue essentially was simple. Diefenbaker had long been reluctant to equip Canadian forces with U.S. nuclear weapons under joint U.S.-Canadian control. Kennedy and his advisers believed however, that the weapons are essential for Canada's role in the defense of North America and Western Europe. Canadian units are part of the European NATO force.

The issue has been a source of friction for at least a year. A year ago, Diefenbaker told the Canadian Parliament that joint control of nuclear weapons could not be arranged under existing U.S. Law. Four days later, on March 1, Rusk told a news conference here that such arrangements could be worked out. He softened this by adding that the decision, of course was up to Canada.

Following the Cuban crisis last October, Diefenbaker initiated secret talks with U.S. representatives on the possibility of obtaining nuclear warheads. The talks failed and the statement issued here last week said bluntly that

Burglars Settle for Cookie Jar

EASTON, Md. (AP)—Burglars unable to crack the safe in the office of a bottled gas distributor finally settled for the cookie jar. State police said the safecracker.

Canada had failed to produce any kind of practical plan to solve the problem.

U.S. officials obviously were convinced that regardless of the negotiations Diefenbaker in fact did not want Canada to have U.S. nuclear weapons, at least not for some time.

On Jan. 25, during a full-dress parliamentary debate, Diefenbaker stated his position in a speech which in the U.S. view obscured the realities of the problem.

It was to those arguments that the United States objected on the ground that for the most part they blurred the facts.

The statement was bare of the usual diplomatic language employed to prevent offense if possible to a foreign government.

The prevailing view in the State Department now still is that the U.S. action was fully justified because of the gravity of defense requirements and the United States still wants Canada to get nuclear warheads as soon as possible.

Just a Suggestion

MEMPHIS (AP)—Eldron Roark of the Memphis Press-Scimitar made a tongue-in-cheek suggestion Tuesday of a way to show appreciation for France's loan to America of the painting, Whistler's Mother. Roark said in exchange for the masterpiece, now on display in America, this nation should loan France "Whistler's Father," an imaginative painting by artist Frank L. Miller. Miller's painting shows Father Whistler, a trim little man wearing an apron, doing the dishes in the kitchen while Mother Whistler is seen through a doorway, a study of quiet relaxation.

ers who broke into the place Tuesday night worked on the safe with a large screwdriver, a chisel, a hammer, a maul, a hacksaw, a burning torch, a hatchet and a pick.

They finally took a few dollars in change from a cookie jar.

Four Fighting for Top Scorer

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Four Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference players are fighting for the No. 3 spot in the conference's individual scoring race, but there's no doubt about the first two places. Arkansas Tech's Kenny Saylor is well on his way to a second straight individual scoring title. He is average 25.9 points a game.

LaVaughan Robertson of Arkansas College is second with an average of 20.4 points a game. He has outscored Saylor 449 to 415 this season, but Robertson has played in six more games than the Tech star.

Kenneth Lewis of Henderson, a freshman, has an edge at third place right now with an 18.3 average.

Close behind are Vernon Rogers of Harding at 18.1, Wayne Davenport of Ouachita with 18.0 and Solon Mobley of Arkansas A&M with 17.9 points a game. All four have been in third place at least once during the season.

Eleven Arkansas Governors have been natives of the state.

Peaches, grown in pre-Territorial Arkansas by Cherokee Indians, became a commercial crop about 1900.

Boy Scouts of Troop 869 Are Special

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"On my honor, I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country," begins one of the world's most famous oaths.

"To help other people at all times," it concludes, "to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

That pledge—and the motto "Be Prepared"—have helped guide the lives of 36 million Boy Scouts and their leaders since the founding of the famous youth organization in this country 53 years ago.

This is National Boy Scout Week, and it is being celebrated by an active membership of around 5,250,000 scouts and their adult leaders.

Here are some items of interest about the movement:

Nine members of President Kennedy's Cabinet were Boy Scouts, and so was Kennedy. So were 21 of the 27 Rhodes Scholars named in 1962, 75 per cent of the freshman class at West Point, and every one of the new crop of U.S. astronauts selected last year.

Scouting is carried on in 141 countries, colonies and protectorates throughout the world. One out of every four American men has been associated with the program either as a scout or as a leader. In America today there are 135,000 troops sponsored by PTA's, American Legion posts, Red Cross chapters, churches, and civic organizations. There are more than 1 1/2 million adult volunteers, and the biggest problem of the movement is to find enough qualified men to lead the growing number of troops. The task takes time, experience, dedication and an understanding of and sympathy for youth.

Nearly 1.5 per cent of all Boy Scouts go on to become Eagle Scouts, who must win 21 Merit Badges.

Although scouting stresses physical fitness, it doesn't overlook the handicapped. There are more than 40,000 blind scouts, and the Boy Scout Handbook is available in Braille for their benefit.

A unique group is Troop 869 of Hondo, Cal. Its 26 boys have no canoes or camping equipment. They can't swim, camp or hike. They memorize the information they need to win Merit Badges. They learn knot-tying yet don't see the knots they tie.

The boys of Troop 869 rarely get outdoors, and when they do many people have to accompany them. Just ordinary Boy Scouts with perhaps a little more fortitude and ambition, all are hospitalized and confined to iron lungs. All have polio.

On January 11, 1863, Arkansas Post was virtually destroyed by Federal gunboats at the battle of Arkansas Post.

Hot Muffins For Breakfast—M-M-M-Good

"Take two and butter 'em while they're hot." No one will need further prompting when you pass this advice along with a basket of piping hot muffins at breakfast.

You can serve tender, nutritious muffins for breakfast often when you reach for the bag of enriched self-rising flour. Because the baking powder and salt are already in the flour, no precious minutes are taken for measuring and sifting in leavening and salt. For perfect muffins, be certain the melted shortening has cooled almost to room temperature before adding to milk and egg. Try blending the liquid and dry ingredients with a rubber spatula, folding slowly 25 to 30 times to avoid peaked muffins. Then, to save dishwashing and for easy school lunch packing, bake your muffins in colorful paper cups.

Try these tasty Walnut Muffins real soon, to serve with fried eggs and crisp bacon strips.

WALNUT MUFFINS

2 cups sifted enriched self-rising flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening or oil
12 walnut halves

Sift together flour and sugar. Stir in chopped walnuts. Combine egg, milk and shortening or oil. Add liquid to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Fill greased muffin cups 3/4 full. Place walnut half on top of each. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) about 20 minutes.

Appalachians. Unseasonably mild temperatures were reported in central and western parts of the country.

Subzero cold was reported only in northern Maine, with temperatures mostly in the teens in other parts of New England, in parts of New York State and from North Dakota eastward to the Lake Superior region. Snow flurries fell in parts of the cold belt.

The storm also pushed heavy breakers onto valuable ocean-front property, battering resorts and swallowing yards of beach.

Coast Guard craft were trying to rescue ships from the tip of Florida to the Carolinas. Gale warnings flew most of the way but heavy seas gave the rescuers almost as much trouble as the rescued.

Tides ran two to four feet above normal along the Carolinas, Georgia and northeast Florida Monday with flooding and considerable erosion, the Weather Bureau said.

The Coast Guard said towering waves made rescues ticklish. "We've got just about everything that will run out there," one officer said.

Before sweeping across Florida from the Gulf of Mexico, the storm sank a brawler, drowning three men. Six others were rescued.

Among the craft in trouble in the Atlantic were: the shrimp boat Mingo, the tanker Texico Illinois, the fishing vessel Sultan I, and the fishing vessel Tiger Shark.

A work crew of more than 60 shored up seawalls in Jacksonville with sandbags. A request for convict labor was turned down because the prisoners had their hands full trying to repair washed out drainage ditches and other storm damage.

The weather pattern in other parts of the nation showed only minor changes. To severe storms were reported and a warming trend continued in most sections from the Pacific Coast to the

Congress to Get Another Health Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will send Congress a special message Thursday outlining his proposals for legislation to promote the nation's health programs.

This was reported today by Democratic congressional leaders after their weekly breakfast with Kennedy.

The general health message will aim at alleviating the growing shortage of doctors, dentists and nurses and increasing hospital and nursing home facilities. It presumably will deal also with a plan to help increase the capacity of medical and dental schools.

The congressional leaders reported that another special message on a youth opportunities program will be submitted by Kennedy next week.

Last year, Kennedy lumped his controversial proposals for medical insurance for the aged under the Social Security system with his general health program. This time, the plan will be submitted separately in a special message later on dealing with problems of the aged.

Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze said the health insurance program, which died in the last Congress, is being redesigned this year in an effort to make it more palatable.

The youth opportunities program will be aimed at reducing the number of young people who drop out of school and fail to find

Bond Issue Is Solved for Hoffa

DETROIT (AP)—Teamsters President James R. Hoffa's reported bonding problems, apparently were solved Monday when an Indianapolis bonding firm announced it will write 95 per cent of the surety bonds covering Hoffa and other national and local officers of the union.

Frank Wright Sr., president of United Bonding Co., told reporters here that his firm will issue bonds up to its capacity of $60,000 per person and will seek reinsurance elsewhere for anyone needing bond in excess of that amount.

Hoffa charged last week that the Justice Department was exerting pressure on bonding companies to prevent them from insuring Teamsters' funds. Later, however, he told a congressional committee that he had no firsthand knowledge of this.

Present bonds of Hoffa and fellow Teamsters officers expire Friday and Hoffa said he might be forced to shut down all union financial activities since the Landrum-Griffin Act requires union officials to post bond covering 10 per cent of all funds they handle, if the funds exceed $5,000 a year. When word came that Wright's firm would provide the bonds, Hoffa was meeting with Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds. Hoffa offered to post $500,000 in cash or securities with the Labor Department as evidence of good faith.

If this offer had been rejected, Hoffa said, the Teamsters planned to seek an injunction against enforcement of the bonding requirement, on the ground the Landrum-Griffin law is unconstitutional or at least unenforceable in the Teamsters' case.

Hoffa charged that some companies had offered to issue the bonds, but he said they wanted more than three times the amount the union has been paying, plus a large cash collateral.

Group Against Boards Bill

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The State Agencies Committee of the Arkansas House put a "do not pass" recommendation today on Bradley County Rep. Bill Wells' bill to spell out a prohibition against conflict of interest involving members of state boards or commissions and school boards.

Wells' bill would prohibit any board member from engaging in any financial undertaking involving dealings with the board.

Violations would be punishable by fines of $100-$150 and/or imprisonment of 30-90 days.

When word came that Wright's firm would provide the bonds, Hoffa was meeting with Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds. Hoffa offered to post $500,000 in cash or securities with the Labor Department as evidence of good faith.

If this offer had been rejected, Hoffa said, the Teamsters planned to seek an injunction against enforcement of the bonding requirement, on the ground the Landrum-Griffin law is unconstitutional or at least unenforceable in the Teamsters' case.

Hoffa charged that some companies had offered to issue the bonds, but he said they wanted more than three times the amount the union has been paying, plus a large cash collateral.

To Discuss Cotton Acre Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., of West Memphis, Ark., said here Tuesday that the House Agriculture Committee will consider Thursday a bill to provide a domestic subsidy on cotton and give producers the option of increasing their acreage and accepting lower prices.

A subcommittee headed by Gathings approved the bill Tuesday. He said the vote to send the bill to the full committee was 8-7.

The bill is in line with recommendations made last week by President Kennedy, who urged a domestic subsidy to eliminate what he called inequities in the present two-price system for cotton.

As approved by the subcommittee, the bill directs the Commodity Credit Corporation to make payments in the form of payment-in-kind certificates. This would permit domestic mills to obtain U.S. cotton at the export prices which are 8 1/2 cents less than the domestic price.

The administration had talked in terms of a subsidy ranging between 4 and 6 cents a pound, rather than 8 1/2 cents.

The bill also provides that a cotton producer may exceed his cotton

Classified Data on Crashed Plane

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—The Albuquerque Journal said today in a Washington dispatch that the classified cargo aboard a Slick Airline transport plane which crashed in San Francisco Sunday was two Polaris guidance capsules.

The Journal, quoting Lt. Barry Trebor-McConnell of the Navy, said the Polaris guidance capsules were believed to be en route from the General Electric plant in Pittsfield, Mass., to the Lockheed Aircraft plant at Sunnyvale, Calif. John Neal of the Pittsfield plant was among four survivors of the crash. Four other men were killed.

Drop in Rabies

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Health Department said Tuesday the number of rabies cases in Arkansas dropped from 246 in 1961 to only 70 last year. The decline was attributed by Dr. Harvie R. Ellis, director of the Division of Veterinary Public Health, more to natural causes than the state's rabies vaccination program.

ton acreage allotment by 30 per cent on condition he accept the export price on cotton for the excess he grows. This would begin in 1964 and continue for three years.

Farmers could also take the option of planting less acreage and getting higher subsidies.

A Winter Storm Hits East Coast

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A slow-moving winter storm lashed the Atlantic today. Twenty-foot waves and 50-mile winds endangered more than a half-dozen ships and hobbled attempts at rescue.

The storm also pushed heavy breakers onto valuable ocean-front property, battering resorts and swallowing yards of beach. Coast Guard craft were trying to rescue ships from the tip of Florida to the Carolinas. Gale warnings flew most of the way but heavy seas gave the rescuers almost as much trouble as the rescued.

Tides ran two to four feet above normal along the Carolinas, Georgia and northeast Florida Monday with flooding and considerable erosion, the Weather Bureau said.

The Coast Guard said towering waves made rescues ticklish. "We've got just about everything that will run out there," one officer said.

Before sweeping across Florida from the Gulf of Mexico, the storm sank a brawler, drowning three men. Six others were rescued.

Among the craft in trouble in the Atlantic were: the shrimp boat Mingo, the tanker Texico Illinois, the fishing vessel Sultan I, and the fishing vessel Tiger Shark.

A work crew of more than 60 shored up seawalls in Jacksonville with sandbags. A request for convict labor was turned down because the prisoners had their hands full trying to repair washed out drainage ditches and other storm damage.

The weather pattern in other parts of the nation showed only minor changes. To severe storms were reported and a warming trend continued in most sections from the Pacific Coast to the

Entertain The Easy Way

Entertaining at brunch is easy—it can be informal and calls for rather simple dishes. Some wintry weekend, try this brunch menu: Broiled Grapefruit, Creamed Chipped Beef with Sliced Hard-Cooked Eggs, Cranberry Bran Muffins, and plenty of good Hot Coffee. An ideal way to serve the coffee is in one of the new Instant Maxwell House coffee makers, now available in grocery stores. This carafe of heat-proof glass is excellent for making instant coffee by the "potful"...the best way to bring out the fine coffee flavor...and so convenient for second servings.

Cranberry Bran Muffins

3/4 cup sifted flour
2 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
3/4 cup milk
3 tablespoons shortening, melted
1 1/2 cups 40% bran flakes
1/2 cup chopped uncooked cranberries

*Sour milk may be substituted for sweet milk; add 1/2 teaspoon soda and decrease baking powder to 2 teaspoons.

Measure sifted flour, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift together. Combine egg and milk. Add to flour mixture, add shortening, and then mix only enough to dampen flour. Fold in cereal and cranberries. Spoon into greased muffin pans, filling each two-thirds full. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 8 medium-sized muffins.

Charges Are Shrugged Off by DeGaulle

By RODNEY ANGOVE

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle has shrugged off British accusations he is trying to emulate Hitler or Napoleon by keeping Britain out of the European Common Market.

The French leader, in fact, feels he is saving Britain from being used as a stooge by the United States to give the Americans more of an economic hold on Europe.

Members of the National Assembly came away from a reception Tuesday at the Elysee Palace—the French White House—with these impressions and gave an insight into De Gaulle's thinking.

The deputies reported De Gaulle said he considers that Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan double-crossed him at Nassau by Britain's agreeing to accept President Kennedy's offer of Polaris missiles.

Macmillan met with De Gaulle just before leaving for the Bahamas conference with President Kennedy last December.

"Macmillan told me 'You are right to make a striking (nuclear) force. We too are trying to make ours. We must associate them in the European framework, independent of America.'"

"On this he left me, to go to the Bahamas. That was ahead of my news conference (when De Gaulle declared Britain was not ready to enter Europe) and changed the tone of it."

"The English always manage to appear respectable. That's how they succeed in having a certain influence in the foreign press, and in our country, too, in certain circles."

"Mr. Macmillan, whom I like very much, had me compared by the British press to Hitler. He knows me well enough to know that this is out of the question. I have even been compared to Napoleon."

When another deputy suggested DeGaulle had probably done Macmillan a favor in the British political situation, De Gaulle responded:

"Ah well, he deserves it."

Malvern Okays Airport Plan

MALVERN, Ark. (AP)—The Malvern City Council approved Tuesday night plans for construction of an airport on 140 acres of land 2½ miles southeast of Malvern off Sulphur Springs road.

Cost of the land and construction of the airport is estimated at $104,000. The city will apply to the Federal Aviation Agency for a federal loan to cover half the cost.

Some $19,000 already has been spent for the land. The council approved a $75,000 airport bond issue last month.

Construction of hangar and other facilities would cost $32,500. The city will ask the Housing and Home Finance Agency for a grant to help pay construction costs of the facilities. Hot Spring County recently became eligible for HHA grants.

Shipping Is Lashed Along East Coast

NAGS HEAD, N.C. (AP)—A fierce winter storm which has endangered shipping and has eroded Atlantic Ocean beaches from Florida to North Carolina, cut the North Carolina Outer Banks in two again today.

The Cape Hatteras Coast Guard station reported that the storm had widened a channel through Hatteras Island on the Outer Banks, cut by storms of last spring and fall. Until the channel is filled, residents and vacationers will have to make long detours by ferry.

Although the storm lost strength during the night, upper air patterns at 6 a.m. indicated further intensification possible in the next 24 hours.

Army engineers and Outer Banks residents had dumped thousands of sandbags and 250 wrecked automobiles into the old channel cut. The 1,500-foot opening had been filled in to 100 feet before the new storm hit.

The Miami Weather Bureau said the storm center was estimated about 150 miles off the Georgia and South Carolina coasts.

Gale warnings were flying from Cape Canaveral, Fla., to Nags Head, where residents of the Outer Banks bolstered a battered shoreline with sandbags. Rough seas and tides of one to

The rain belt in the Southeast extended from southeast Georgia to the coastal plains of the Carolinas, with rain or drizzle in most of Florida.

There were only a few other wet spots in the country. Drizzle and light rain sprinkled coastal sections in the Pacific Northwest while snow flurries fell in the cool air in the Great Lakes region eastward into Maine.

The coldest areas, with freezing temperatures, were mostly confined from northern Minnesota eastward through the Great Lakes region, most of the Ohio Valley and across the middle and north Atlantic coastal states. It was near zero in Limestone, Maine.

The mercury soared to near 60 Tuesday as far north as the Dakotas and Montana, with 70s in many parts of the Southern Plains and Kansas. Record marks for the date were reported in several cities. Summer-like weather again was reported in the Southwest desert region with readings in the 80s and 90s.

Hall Again Knocks Off Leader

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Little Rock Hall did it again. The Warriors brought Big Nine Conference leader North Little Rock to a screeching halt, 50-46, in the Hall gym Tuesday night. It was the third time Hall had put down the Wildcats—and all three games were non-conference battles.

The only conference game between Hall and North Little Rock was won by the Wildcats, the No. 1 team in the Big Nine and the No. 1 team in The Associated Press Arkansas high school basketball poll.

In other action Tuesday night, Greene County Tech put down Blytheville 41-38; Fort Smith rolled over Fayetteville 47-40; Conway trimmed Little Rock Central 43-41; Nashville upset Hot Springs 55-52; and Texarkana whipped Hooks, Tex., 45-31, and Pine Bluff beat Greenville, Miss., 52-51.

Stokowski Carries Flag for Youth

By MILES A. SMITH
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—At 75, Maestro Leopold Stokowski still carries a musical banner for youth and its future hopes.

Still tremendously busy—building another orchestra, making guest appearances with the Philadelphia Orchestra and others, reading manuscript scores that pour into his studio overlooking Central Park—the man who once formed an All American Youth Orchestra manages to find time to give encouragement to young musicians.

Friday, he will be back in Philadelphia for an anniversary concert, commemorating the 50th season since he made his debut there.

But in answering an interviewer's questions about the anniversary, he soon turned the subject aside.

"I would rather talk about the future," he said. "The past is something we no longer can do anything about."

He began talking about the American Symphony, which under his leadership began giving concerts last fall.

"One-third of our players are the most talented youth from the great music schools of New York, Boston, Rochester, Philadelphia and Baltimore—young people with tremendous talent," he said.

"For the remaining two-thirds we have the great, experienced free-lance players of New York, whom I know personally from making records for years."

"The young players learn from the experienced players, and the latter gain from the enthusiasm and vitality of the young people."

In connection with this project, he continually auditions young singers, young players and young conductors. Nor are young composers neglected.

Beanzza Is The Newest Thing In Pizzas

The crowd coming over? As soon as they arrive, why don't you pull a bubbling hot Beanzza from the oven. They'll think you're great!

When teenagers get together, there's always a hurray for a new kind of pizza that's fun to make and good to eat. Canned beans & ground beef in barbecue sauce makes a pizza, or Beanzza, deliciously different with its spicy tomato sauce and tasty beans & beef.

This Beanzza is so easy to create, even on the shortest notice. Just open a can and pile the beans & beef onto a refrigerated pizza shell. Next comes cheese; then let everyone choose his own topping... anchovies, mushrooms, or olives.

Beanzza.

1 refrigerated 9-inch pizza shell
1 can (1 pound) beans & ground beef in barbecue sauce
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese (4 ounces)
Anchovy fillets
Sliced mushrooms
Sliced stuffed olives

Place pizza shell on cookie sheet. Spread beans & ground beef on shell. Top with cheese. Arrange in alternate sections: anchovies, mushrooms, and olives. Bake at 400°F. for 20 minutes or until cheese is browned. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

DOROTHY DIX Wife Says She Has Enough Love For Two

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: During one of our occasional discussions my wife told me that a woman can be in love with two men at once. This startled me but I brushed off her notion as hypothetical. Later on I found that she not only meant it but was living it.

After thinking it over I used sympathy and understanding in braking up her affair. Now, however, it appears that a stern lecture or at least a loud bellow would have been more appropriate and effective—easier on both of us in the long run and a means of clearing the haze.

The last time we talked about it I found that I still have little to go on. Momentary infatuation, adventure, a break from routine: these are things a man can understand. But complete love multiplied by two—fantastic! From her point of view it's all very simple; you have two brothers or two sisters, you love them both.

Her Mr. Wonderful must be wonderful indeed to rate even with a husband in spite of a husband's advantages of marriage, home and fatherhood. If the shoe were on the other foot—she married to the other man—would I draw a second glance? It's a question I don't care to ponder.

This is a woman in her mid-thirties, married 15 years, trim, a college graduate with a school teacher background. It's not easy to treat such maturity like a

Gracie Allen. Any suggestions? —Pushed-to-the-Limit

Dear Pushed: Your situation though bizarre, is not as unusual as you might think. A banker friend of my first husband, John Erskine, was married to a young, high-strung and restless woman ever seeking self-expression and never finding it until one day she came to her husband completely relaxed and happy, with the news that she loved another man.

"But this won't make any difference in our lives," she added, "for I love you just as much."

Instead of kicking her out, the husband, looking completely devastated, poured out his tragic story to us.

"What shall I do?" he asked. "You'll have to answer that question yourself," said John. "But being the understanding, kind and thoughtful human being you are, my guess is that you will keep your wife, hoping for her speedy recovery from this temporary aberration. After all there are many kinds of love."

The banker did just that but instead of recovering, his wife went on to other lovers. And therein lies your danger.

No two people are exactly alike nor is love ever the same for any two people. There are all kinds of combinations: physical, mental, spiritual; attractions and repulsions. There are women, like the wife of the banker, who want a good old-dog-Tray husband yet crave adventure, passion and change. The difficulty lies in laying down a specific rule for the dominant motive. Love is too intangible to be charted and measured. However, it is safe to say that almost without exception, no normal woman can love two men equally at the same time. Ask your wife to define love.

True love is, as I have repeatedly said in this column, completely selfless; an overwhelming longing to give. If she truly loved you, her one objective in life would be your welfare, your happiness. It must be all or nothing.

If it isn't, there is something lacking in your love. Perhaps, like the banker, you are the Rock of Gibraltar type; wonderful to cling to in trouble but wanting in the romance and adventure which "Mr. Wonderful" supplies.

Dear Helen: Thanks for answering my letter in your column. I love my brother-in-law and feel that I will be happy with him but how can I be sure he will continue to love me and my boys? After one unhappy marriage I'm afraid to take the chance. I feel if I learn a profession I can be independent so have asked my brother-in-law to wait until I establish myself as a beautician.

He doesn't want to wait but I feel if he really loves me he'll wait till the moon turns to green cheese. How can I really be certain he does care that much? —B.

Dear B: You know the answer in your heart of hearts, else you wouldn't ask the question. Your instinct is right. Forget the brother-in-law. Establish yourself in the beauty business and get on with your own life, independent of any man. Only then will the right one come along.

Dear Helen: I'm married to a mailman who won't walk with me. If we go shopping, he'll take off in one direction and send me in another. This makes me feel he is ashamed of my looks, there being a scar on my face. We've been married seven years, have two children and were reasonably happy at first. He's 29, I am 17 but look older. What do you advise? —Sorrowful

Dear Sorrowful: After seven years of marriage you certainly should be able to communicate with one another. Ask your husband why he wants to walk alone. Perhaps it's force of habit —his mailman's job may have set the pattern. As for the scar, ask your local hospital to recommend a competent plastic surgeon. Whether or not your husband is sensitive to the scar—you are. Therefore the condition should be corrected.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this self-addressed envelope.

Work Starts on Union Co. Plant

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—Ground was broken in the industrial park here Monday for El Dorado's newest industry — engineering and manufacturing — needed by the state.

Construction of the 32,000-square-foot manufacturing facility and 2,000-square-foot office was made possible by a $412,000 bond issue approved last October by Union County voters.

Work on the office is scheduled to begin immediately, with plant construction to start later. Production is expected to begin in May.

About 100 persons will be employed eventually, but 65 will be employed during the early phases of production.

Insurance Plan

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The attorney general's office ruled today that it is illegal for a school district to provide group hospitalization insurance for teachers as a part of its salary provisions.

The opinion went to W. D. Tammey, superintendent of schools at Blytheville, who said his district was considering the possibility of buying group insurance next year with the school district paying part or all of the cost.

The attorney general said Arkansas law provides only for payment of the teachers' contribution to the Teacher Retirement System and for dues in professional organizations from the teachers' salary fund.

Club Closes While Legislature Meets

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—The Service Men's Locker Room closed Monday to remain closed throughout the legislative session, but three other clubs opened here Monday after being temporarily padlocked.

The Cadillac Club, Riverview Club and Thunderbird Club were closed by court order over the weekend. Charges of possession of liquor for sale and sale of intoxicating beverages have been filed against all four clubs.

The charges stem from a raid earlier this year. The court allowed the clubs to reopen after enjoining them from future violations. Prosecutor Lyman Mikel said the charges would be heard later this month.

Increase in Jobs

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce here announced Saturday that available industrial jobs in this area increased by 388, compared to Jan. 1 a year ago. Donald T. Barger, the chamber's industrial division chairman, said the increase was related to expansions of 53 industries.

Construction Allowed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arkansas-Louisiana Gas Company received authorization Tuesday from the Power Commission to construct over $13 million in pipeline facilities. The new facilities would connect supplies of natural gas in the Arkansas Basin area of Southern Oklahoma to the Arkla system. Arkla operates in Arkansas, Kansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas. The commission also approved operation by Arkla of facilities now used in intrastate gas transmission as interstate facilities. No new sales or service to new markets were proposed in the firm's application.

Belle was just a moment mixing a Scotch and water for Dr. Stroup. Then she seated herself beside Corbin Bradley.

"We'll get this thing into the open right now," said Bradley. "Most of you know what it's all about. That new teevy picture tube. Shows pictures in three dimensions."

"The patent has been granted but the tube isn't on the market yet," said Rispin. "I think it's impractical anyhow."

"You hope it isn't practical," Bradley growled. "Because if it is, it'll make you look sick. Chet presented the principles to you three years ago."

"Dr. Pruitt signed a patent agreement," said Rispin. "If he invented the tube it belongs to us."

"Any evidence that it's Chet's?" Dr. Stroup asked.

"It's his, all right, and we'll prove it," said Bradley.

"Where'd you get this information?"

"From somebody who knows," Bradley replied.

Matt pulled the patent office bulletin from his office and handed it to Bradley. "This what you're talking about?"

Bradley took it with eager hands. "Where'd you get this?"

"I found it in Pruitt's office this afternoon."

"Johnson showed me the same thing," said Bradley.

"Cliff Johnson?" Belle Pruitt's voice showed disbelief. "He's the one that accused Chester?"

"Yes, Johnson has loyalty to Magnetic that goes beyond the bonds of personal friendship," said Bradley. "He believes rule violations should be reported."

"Especially when he might expect a promotion out of it," said Stroup.

"I suppose you know other things you haven't told me," Bacon said Bradley drily.

"I heard about Rispin rejecting Pruitt's idea. Johnson said Rispin discussed the 3-D tube at a meeting of the radio ham club. Rispin ridiculed it."

"Perhaps I did say something about it," Rispin said lamely.

"But I was among friends, I thought. I didn't think I really ridiculed it especially."

"You called it comic relief," said Belle Pruitt.

"It doesn't matter what you said Simon," said Bradley, tersely.

Bradley passed the paper over to Clague, who glanced it briefly and gave it to Stroup, who handed it back to Matt after looking at it.

"Patented in July," Stroup noted.

"You say you talked to Johnson about it, Matt? Why didn't you mention this over the phone?"

"You didn't give me a chance," Matt turned to Mrs. Pruitt. "You understand. Mrs. Pruitt, that I'm hired to do this. I think the tube had something to do with your husband's death, which I'm investigating."

"She nodded. "Yes, I understand. And for your information, that idea for a 3-D television tube was mine, not Chester's."

Stroup finished his drink and said:

"Do you mind explaining how the 3-D tube works, Belle. I'm not a radio man myself, and I'd like

Oven Barbecued Lamb

Lamb is delicious when cooked with a barbecue sauce. You are in for a treat, if you have never tried this roasting method.

BARBECUED LAMB
8 pound leg of lamb
2 tsp. salt
1 onion, sliced
1 cup water
1/2 cup catsup
2 Tbsp. steak sauce
2 Tbsp. Lea & Perrins
Worcestershire Sauce
1/4 tsp. cayenne

Wipe the leg of lamb with a damp cloth, rub it with salt and dredge it with flour. Place in a roasting pan and surround with onion. Combine the remaining ingredients, mix well and pour over the meat. Roast in a 350° F. oven 30 minutes for each pound. Baste every 20 minutes with the sauce. (Serves 8).

Roasted potatoes are excellent with lamb. Peel potatoes and cut them in halves or quarters. Boil in salted water for 10 minutes. Drain thoroughly. After meat has roasted for 1/2 hour, add the potatoes to the roasting pan. Season them with salt and pepper, dot them with butter. Let them cook with the roast, turning them once and basting a little with the pan juices.

to know. Perhaps from your description of the tube, we can learn whether this patent idea is a stolen idea or not."

"Sure, Wesley," she said in a strained voice. "The principle of television rests in 1884 known as the scanner. This device transmits a scene piecemeal, line after line, and this transmission is retained by a fluorescent screen in the picture tube to create the illusion of a complete picture. Our eye retina also helps in this process so television is partly mechanical and partly psychological."

"I theorized that a double scanner, using the stereopticon principle, might give a three-dimensional image.

"My method of separation was to use a vertical and a horizontal scanner. The simultaneous scanings would be polarized and separated by optical aids worn by the viewer."

"You mean polarized glasses?" Stroup asked.

"That's it, exactly," said Belle. "The whole idea is fantastic," said Rispin. "It couldn't possibly work."

"I made it work," said Belle Pruitt. "I patented that tube. Duomate is a dummy corporation in which my mother was the principal shareholder. Now that she's dead, I own the stock along with a lawyer in California and my brother in New Jersey."

"Aha!" said Bradley. You admit it."

"I signed no patent agreement with Magnetic," said Belle Pruitt. "Matt was sure of one thing. He hadn't understood this technical conversation. Furthermore he wasn't interested. The main concern of the detective was whether or not this invention was the motive for a murder. If it was Belle Pruitt's idea, then why was Dr. Pruitt killed?"

Food Stamp Plan Delayed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Jim Phillips, acting state welfare Commissioner, said Tuesday the food stamp plan test in Independent County may not be started until April 2.

March 5 had been set as the date for beginning of the program. Phillips said preparations at the national and state level may hold back the test. President Kennedy designated the county as an area for the test on Aug. 2, 1962.

Has Nicest Position in Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Doris Ann, whose title is "manager, NBC-TV Network Religious Programs," maintains she has the nicest job in television and is prepared to prove it.

As producer and majordomo of a weekly half-hour program on the network that comes at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Miss Ann points out that the program rarely competes with sports events and therefore is infrequently bumped off the channel. Because the programs are classified as religious, they have no commercial sponsor—the network counts the show as a pure public service.

The program's audience has been analyzed by researchers and found to hold about equal numbers of men, women and children, and also found what Miss Ann calls "the church and the unchurched."

All of this is most stimulating to the slim, blonde woman who has made religious programming her specialty for the past 11 years, and who is partly responsible for its change of character. A religious program once consisted merely of a camera and microphone in front of a preacher.

Today it can be a strong drama on vital, even controversial themes, a dramatization of a book—"The Diary of Anne Frank" appeared as one of her shows before it was a stage play or movie—or a folk singing group, or an intellectual discussion.

The half hour is apportioned among the three principal religious groups of the nation, approximately in terms of their membership. Of the 52 weeks, 29 are assigned to Protestant groups, 16 to Roman Catholics and eight to Jews. She works primarily through official organizations connected with the various faiths who supply the manuscripts and talent—with NBC and Miss Ann retaining the right to reject anything they feel is not up to the show's normal standards. NBC pays for the air time and provides the sets, studios, equipment and promotion.

It fearlessly has tackled themes ranging from prejudice to communism and "if it is done well, it is as entertaining as anything on the air," she insists.

Miss Ann—her last name is Scharfberg which she dropped because it is hard to pronounce and spell—is a native of Newark, N.J., now lives in East Orange. She is a graduate of Bucknell and took her master's degree at New York University. The only secret in Miss Ann's professional life is her own religious faith.

Special Vote Called at Ratcliff

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus announced Tuesday a special election will be held Feb. 6 at Ratcliff in Logan County to elect a city recorder and alderman.

In the November general election Todd Patterson and Raymond Biggs tied for recorder and Marvin Cox and Frank Nixon tied for alderman of Ward 2, position 2. Each got 40 votes.

Ward Reported Doing Better

LITTLE ROCK (AP) —Rep. W. L. Ward of Lee County was reported in good condition in a Little Rock hospital today after having suffered a heart attack on the House floor Tuesday.

Ward, the oldest member of the legislature at 82, became ill at his desk and was rushed to a hospital. There was no indication how long he would remain there.

The hospital said his case had been diagnosed as heart failure.

A Bed for Puss

Cats are cuddlers and they love to be warm. To get on the good side of a brand new kitten see to it that she has a proper place to sleep when you first bring her home.

A warm corner of the kitchen, bathroom or laundry room is a good place for the kitten's bed. When she is full grown you will probably want to buy a cat bed, but in the beginning, she will be happier in a smallish cardboard box with a partly covered top. Be sure the sides are low enough for her to manage conveniently.

The box should be lined with a washable flannel or wool blanket. If you can't spare a blanket, old flannel pajamas or a discarded soft wool coat will do. A little flea powder sprinkled under the lining will help keep her pest-free.

A kitten who has just left her mother probably will be lonely. She will appreciate a cloth-wrapped hot water bottle to snuggle up to for the first few nights. A ticking clock nearby often soothes the lonesome.

Newspaper is not considered a good lining for a kitten's bed. The newspaper tends to rub off on her fur—and he can get sick from licking it.

Don't be surprised if your kitten, carefully deposited in her nice new bed, jumps right out and goes exploring. Cats are curious—she won't rest until she's explored every corner of the house. Then she'll come back and look the bed over again. A little catnip sprinkled in her bed will encourage her to return to it.
